OLD CLOTHES A DUTY

Attorney-General Palmer recently displayed a variety of courage that few American men possess. He did this in New York when addressing the Women's Democratic Political League on the subject of the relation of sex to the grave problem of the high cost of living. After his keen eye had swept the gathering of handsomely dressed ladies, many of them exhibiting concrete evidence of recent and costly investments, he remarked that obviously his hearers were not interested in the subject. The audience thereupon stirred in its surprise, many of the most expensively gowned audibly protesting that the Attorney General was mistaken; they were deeply interested. Then Mr. Palmer began his very plain and searching talk by saying that a lady had just asked him how he liked her new hat and that he had told her he did not like it. He explained that at present he did not like anything new in the way of clothes. The government's chief law officer is regarded as a well dressed man and he looked it at the moment, but he solemnly asserted that his clothes were old and that he could prove it by showing the 1914 tag inside the neck band of his coat.

Mr. Palmer then discoursed upon the duty of the patriot to wear old clothes—made over, steamed, pressed and all that, of course, but old and well worn. It was the only way—or one of the only ways—to fight tyrannic H. C. L. and beat the greedy profiteers who ring the changes on their cunning cry, "Buy now or pay more later!" If people were both forthright and patriotic they would refuse to be stampeded in this way; they would wear old clothes and buy sparingly of everything, and then the trade pirates would come to terms in order to save their own skins—or words to that effect. Whether the ladies of the Women's Democratic Political League meditated adopting such a Spartan course is not reported, but they became very solemn under Mr. Palmer's eloquence and doubtless some of them wished that the plumage they were wearing was less gorgeous and expensive.

MORE WORK AND LESS PLAY.

Good news comes from Columbia University, or it will be regarded as good news by the old-fashioned folk who still persist in thinking that learning rather than athletics should be the chief aim of both a college and its students. Precisely what the proposition is is not made very clear in the report that finds limited space in the news columns, but it is intimated that Columbia's heads now aim at "something like an aristocracy of able and earnest scholars." Aristocracy is not an inviting word in a world that is supposed to have been made safe for democracy, but of course we are not to suppose that it is or can be meant literally. Admittedly it is impossible to make a popular hero out of a young scholar, however able, enthusiastic and hard working; but if Columbia can lift the long despised "grind" into respectability and win for him a hundredth part of the esteem lavished upon the football champion, a lasting service to the cause of education will have been performed.

Of course even old-fashioned folk who believe in learning, favor college athletics in their proper place, knowing that a sound mind requires the support of a sound body, and Columbia's reformers would not dare attempt to dethrone football even if they wished to do so. The new system merely proposes to award honors with a view to remind students that higher achievements are possible in the classroom than on the campus. In other words, an effort will be made to cause the pendulum to swing back toward the old ideals of learning and life. Obviously what is needed is the golden mean between physical and mental training, between work and play, and Columbia will do a great thing even if great attainment is only approximated.

Hand embroidery neatly done. Will call for work. For further information address Miss Kathryn Carson, 812 Shady avenue, Charlottesville, Pa. 237-t6p

TURKS OR BOLSHEVIKI?

The interesting news comes from Switzerland that a pamphlet written by Lemme, the Bolshevik dictator, asserts Russia's right to Constantinople and the outlet to the Mediterranean. Lemme demands to know why the Allies are deliberating on the future of a city "which belongs to Russia under a promise made by the Allies in 1915 as a recompense for the Russian effort" in the war, and he declares the determination of the Bolsheviks to possess Constantinople even if they have to fight for it, thus unexpectedly returning to the policy of old imperial Russia whose ambitions were for generations balked by Great Britain.

The demands of the great War brought a change in British policy and in 1915 the Allies did promise the Czar possession of Constantinople. Then came the revolution and Bolshevik Russia not only dropped out of the war on the side of the Allies but indirectly at least served the interests of Germany. This of course freed the Allies from their promise, but this threatening attitude of the Bolshevik dictatorship may have contributed to the deadlock of conflicting interests dictating the decision to leave the Turks in Constantinople. The wide criticism of that decision is likely to be modified by this news, for it is open to question whether a Bolshevik Constantinople would be better for Europe, either politically or morally, than a Turkish Constantinople.

Germany will have to get on its feet commercially before it can pay indemnities or debts of any sort, and so enlightened self-interest is inclining the Supreme Council of the Allies to consider favorably provisions for a loan to the defeated nation. Germany's needless precipitation of war and barbarous war methods can neither be forgotten nor forgiven; but the Allies, being hard hit financially themselves, are disposed to think more about practical expediency and less about exact justice.

The Anti-Saloon League's campaign to raise $30,000,000 to "make the world dry" has been called off in the southeastern district, according to Atlanta dispatches. The said district has contributed but little of the $5,000,000 expected of it because it is explained. Southern prohibitionists are not interested in making the world dry and care only to keep liquor from the negroes.

Switzerland's National Council has voted more than two to one to enter the League of Nations, but the people must vote on the proposition before it gets across. A referendum in this country many months ago would have saved a vast outpouring of Senatorial breath.

GAS OPERATIONS

BEING EXTENDED

The search for the elusive oil and gas belt continues with ever-increasing vigor in the district between McKeesport and Elizabeth, even extending to this side of the river, where a number of locations will be made. The cold weather of the past week has interfered somewhat with drilling but with a higher temperature it is expected the work will continue with greater activity than ever.

The Bunola Oil & Gas company is making excellent progress at their location, near Bunola, where the first well will be drilled. The derrick is now up and spudding will begin within a few days.

At the McClure well on the Frank McClure farm in Lincoln township, Allegheny county, the drill is down 2600 feet. It is expected they will have to go 2750 feet in order to reach the Elizabeth sand.

The Six-Forty Oil & Gas company have located their first well on the Thomas Large farm near the village of Large, Jefferson township, on this side of the river.

Bornschour Company, made up the Pittsburgh men, have located a well on the James Sadler farm in Forward township, and the derrick for the first well is under way.

The McKeesport & Wylie Oil & Gas company will drill one of their wells at Elrama, while Williams Wilson has located a well in Lovedale hollow, at the foot of Fife's hill. Other companies have wells located in that vicinity and the outcome of the ventures will be awaited with great interest.

LOCALS TRIM

the locals always being slightly ahead. In the last quarter the locals broke loose and played such a fast game that the visitors were almost helpless. The locals passed the ball like champions, giving Wagner and Daniels many chances at the basket, and both of them took advantage of their opportunities by caging most of them. The entire Charleroi team played a wonderful game. Kroen and Ewing deserve special mention for the fine game they put up for Rochester. The lineup:

Charleroi—44	Rochester—32
Wagner	F
Daniels	F
Parnett	C
Webster	G
Brown	G

Substitutions:—Brockett for Forsythe; Ewing for Cook; Cook for Treglia. Field Goals—Wagner 9, Daniels 7; Barnett, Kroen 3, Ewing 2. Forsythe 2, Brockett and White. Fouls—Wagner 10 out of 19; Treglia 8 out of 16; Kroen 6 out of 13. Referee—Wagner. Timekeeper—Daniels. Scores—Buswell and Denton.

Hours for Work and for Play. The hours of relaxation must come, they are absolutely necessary for all of us, but a very definite line should be drawn between the hours of work and the hours of play if one expects to make any kind of success. It is a pity to have to be curt in order to make this line apparent to one's friends and family, but the line must be made plain, even if radical measures are necessary, and the sooner the business woman learns this the better will be her work and the calmer her nerves.

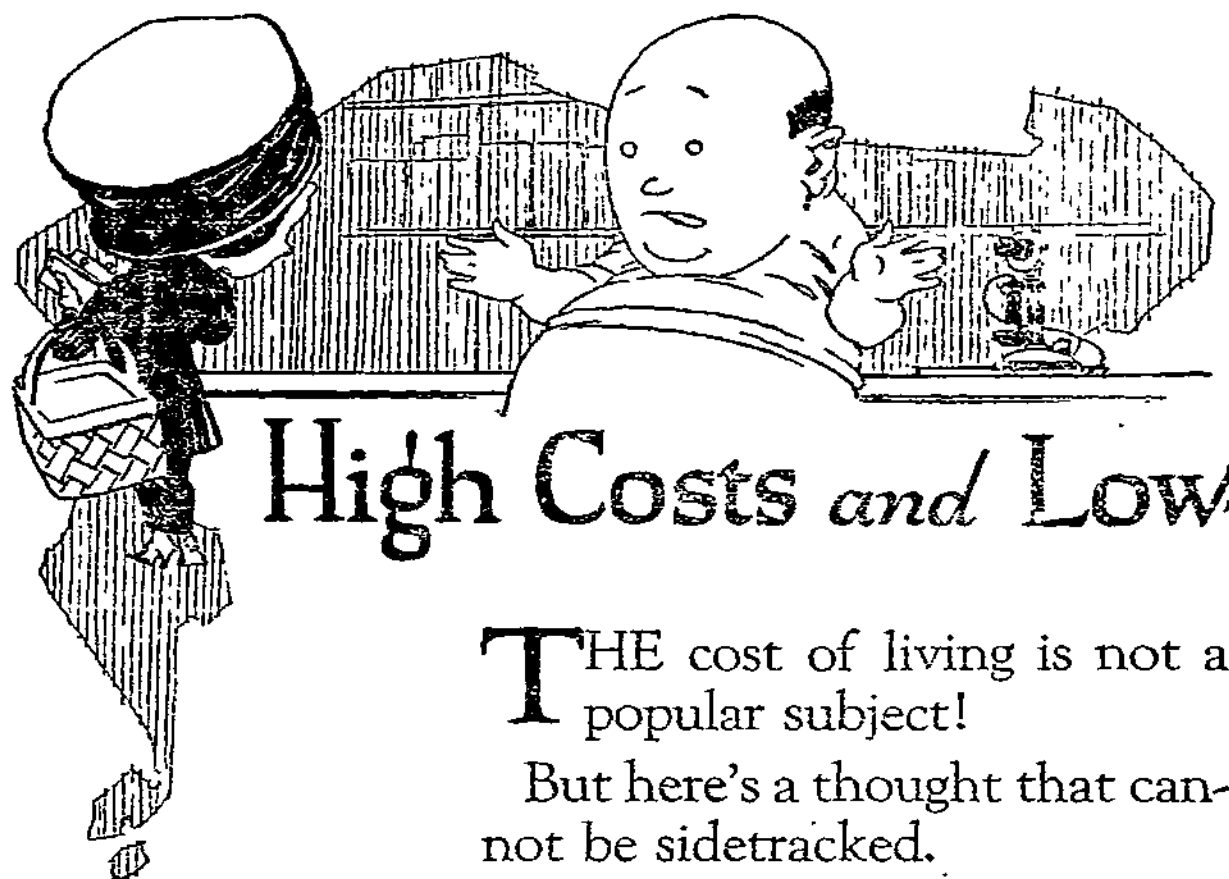

We invite your inspection of our complete line of up-to-the minute Millinery, Georgette and Satin Dresses and Suits for Spring.

A visit to our store will convince you that you will save money.

High Costs and Low-

THE cost of living is not a popular subject!

But here's a thought that cannot be sidetracked.

With the war over, telephone rates reverted to the pre-war figures.

A welcomed contribution to the solution of America's biggest problem, no doubt!

But unfortunately our costs for labor and materials have not likewise gone back to what they were before the war.

We would be in the position of a most willing contributor to the happiness of 1920 were it not that we're between the millstones.

It is a very serious situation! No one likes to complain—but we'd be mighty poor stewards for the public in the administration of one of their most vital services if we did not put the matter squarely before them.

We must have rates that will give us money enough to pay our bills for equipment and materials, assure our employees adequate wages, improve and extend the service, and permit the owners of the property to earn a decent return upon their investment.

The service must be kept going and adequate rates are the only remedy for the situation.

"MALE AND FEMALE"

A Paramount-Artcraft Picture

So Fate seized them--a snobbish family of British blue-bloods. Cast them on an island where the voice of the world was lost. Tumbled them, lord and butler, lady and scullery maid, into a common mass of males and females. Laughed at their former glories, their former handicaps. Pointed to an untamed jungle, ruled only by wild beasts, and said: "Now we shall see who rules."

Then the butler, because he was a man, became a king; and the great lady who once disdained him, served, loved him, fought with a slavey for his kiss!

One day a ship! Rescue! Home! The old world and its old ways. Its pride, conventions, shallow distinctions. Did the true love, the true leadership, of the wilds hold them? Come and see.

A romance that searches deep into human hearts. A picture, poignant, powerful, tremendous in its scope, superb in its artistry--destined to rank as a thrilling climax to "Old Wives for New," "Don't Change Your Husband," "For Better or Worse," "Till I Come Back to You," and all the other great DeMille achievements. You'll never forget "Male and Female."

ONE WOMAN'S EXPERIENCE

Of Interest to Expectant Mothers

Goshen, Ind.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with good results after I had suffered for some time with female trouble. Some years ago I had twin boys and took your Vegetable Compound before they came also before my four year old boy was born, and afterwards, and think it fine for such cases. I tell others what it did for me and you may publish my testimonial."

—Mrs. Geo. A. Foos, 711 S. 9th St., Goshen, Indiana.

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for herself. Every woman at this time should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong and this good old fashioned root and herb remedy contains no narcotics or harmful drugs.

Face to face with the wilderness, the much-boasted leadership of Lord Loam proves incapable of coping with the situation and the real genius of Crichton comes to fore. Under his direction, temporary shelter and sufficient food is procured.

With the reversal of the social order to meet the new conditions, comes a storm of protest from the former masters and mistresses, and Lady Mary is the most severe in her condemnation of Crichton's presumption. But with the passing of time and the fading hope of rescue, this grudging acknowledgment of Crichton's leadership changes to enthusiastic support. Under his guidance comfortable permanent quarters are constructed and many crude substitutes for civilized comforts are devised. In the end, Crichton becomes a veritable king, ruling his little island domain and his half dozen subjects wisely and well.

Other and more vital changes occur in the souls and minds of the individuals. For instance, under Crichton's tutelage, Lady Mary learns the value of self-reliance. She learns to hunt and fish, sew and cook; in a word she becomes a womanly woman.

Romance enters into the lives of these two hitherto widely separated people. Perhaps the happiest moment of Mary's life is when Crichton declares his great love. Just as Treherne is about to officiate at his almost-forgotten duties of clergyman, a ship is sighted off the coast of the island. In spite of the consequences to himself and his happiness, Crichton signals the ship and the party is rescued.

Back in London, Crichton is speedily forgotten by all but Lady Mary. Her love—like Tweeny's—refuses to admit of circumstances. But Crichton, with the unfortunate example of Lady Eileen and McGuire fresh in mind, permits Mary to see his proposing to Tweeny, and thereby drives her back to the man who can really make her contented, Lord Brockelhurst.

To remain a servant where he had been a leader is unthinkable to Crichton, so accompanied by the faithful Tweeney, Crichton turns his face to America, the land where birth and position count for little, and achievement tells. And with this resolution to start anew, comes a realization that after all, faithful little Tweeny is the woman designed for him, despite the beauty of his unforgotten romance with Lady Mary.

DEMILLE'S NOVEL FEAT IN FILMING A PICTURE

Some idea of the attention paid to details by Cecil B. DeMille in his production of the Paramount-Artcraft picture, "Male and Female," which is to be the attraction at the Coyle theatre today, Tuesday and Wednesday, may be gained from a photograph feat which he accomplished during the filming. Those who are familiar with Sir James M. Barrie's famous play, "The Admirable Crichton," from which the new DeMille production was adapted, will recall that several of the most exciting scenes take place in a cave on a tropical island. In order to secure natural sunlight for "shooting" these episodes, Mr. DeMille devised an intricate system of mammoth mirrors, by which the rays of the sun were reflected far into the dark recesses of the cave. Despite the lavish scale upon which the picture was screened, the inimitable Barrie humor and his whimsical touches are apparent throughout. Thomas Meighan has the leading role and other prominent players, in the cast are Gloria Swanson, Lila Lee, Theodore Roberts, Bebe Daniels, Raymond Hatton and Guy Oliver.

SUNDAY SHOOTING AT VESTA NO. 6 MAY RESULT SERIOUSLY

Officer In South Side Hospital In Very Critical Condition

ASSAILANT TAKEN TO JAIL

Jam's V. Davis, aged about 35 years, policeman at Vesta No. 6 mine, near Fredericktown, is in a critical condition at the South Side hospital as the result of three bullet wounds alleged to have been fired by Louise Dussi, an employee of the Vesta Coal company. She used a .32-caliber revolver, one of the bullets striking the officer in the left lung, a second in the abdomen and a third in the left hip. The woman was placed under arrest and taken to Washington, where she was placed in jail to await the outcome of Davis's wounds.

The trouble is said to have occurred at a festivity that was being held at Vesta No. 6 Sunday afternoon, but what led up to the shooting, or whether there had been any disorderly conduct on the part of the participants is not known. Davis was taken to the South Side hospital last night on the last train down and his condition at that time was said to have been very serious.

Davis had been policeman at the Vesta No. 6 mine for the past four or five years and was looked upon as a very competent officer.

BRINGS SUIT FOR HEAVY DAMAGES

Through his attorneys, Adam B. Shaffer and Paul J. Head, Tony Gaspick of Monessen, has filed a suit in the Westmoreland county courts against Oscar Heinke of Charleroi, asking $25,000 damages. The plaintiff, in his statement of claim, says that on April 21, 1919, as he was walking on Morgan avenue, Monessen, the defendant came up behind him and without warning, ran him down the motor truck which the defendant was driving, hurling him with great violence to the ground. While lying prostrate the wheels of the truck passed over his legs and body, grievously injuring and wounding him.

The plaintiff further avers that the defendant was driving recklessly and failed to observe proper caution. The plaintiff further says there were no sidewalks on the avenue, and that the defendant should have driven carefully and blown his horn whenever he encountered pedestrians all of which the plaintiff says the defendant failed to do.

CHARLEROI COUPLE MARRIED SATURDAY

Millard Houseman and Miss Lillian Companion were married Saturday at 2 o'clock p. m. by the Rev. E. N. Duty at his home. Mr. and Mrs. Houseman will reside in Charleroi.

TALENTED ARTIST TO VISIT CHARLEROI

Sascha Jacobsen, the young genius of the violin, who will appear in recital at the high school auditorium next Friday evening, being the third attraction in the Columbia Concert Series, under the management of "Abe" Levinson, local jeweler, is distinctively an American product, musically speaking. Born in Finland of poor Russian parents, he was brought to the United States when but three years of age. Displaying a strong aptitude for music when but a mere child, he was placed under the instruction of the renowned Frank Kneisel, founder of the instrumental string quartette which bore his name, and which for practically a quarter of a century or more has been one of the foremost musical attractions on the American concert stage. That Jacobsen is a pupil worthy of his distinguished teacher was proved last season when he won the unstinted praise of all the New York critics by his performance with the New York Symphony Orchestra. He is yet only twenty years of age and his youth, nationality and American training, not to speak of his wonderful versatility as a violinist, should make his appearance here next Friday evening deeply interesting. It is rarely that an artist of Jacobsen's accomplishments visits the smaller musical centers, and the patrons of good music in this community should avail themselves of listening to one of the finest violinists before the public today. Jacobsen will be assisted by a pianist of repute. Procure your tickets at once as large attendance is anticipated.

DONORA VOTES ON TWO BOND ISSUES

Donora will hold two important elections on Wednesday, the 17th, one a vote on bond issue of $170,000 for borough purposes, and at the same time vote on a similar amount for the erection of a new school building in the borough. It is believed that both issues will carry.

The borough proposes to use the proceeds of the bond issue, if the issue is favorable, for the construction of storm sewers and the improvement of streets, while the school board will use the proceeds from its bond issue for the erection of a new school building. The schools of the borough are badly crowded at the present time and it is estimated that at least

Tuesday And Wednesday Are Dates To Qualify For Primaries

If you want to vote at the May primaries when party candidates for Congress and several minor offices are to be selected, fix the dates, Tuesday and Wednesday, March 16 and 17, in your mind. Those are the days when registry assessors will be at the voting places in Charleroi to register you as a voter.

Charleroi voters have had some bitter experiences at the polls in the past that it would seem sufficient to remind the mob the dates selected for registering. Every primary election sees the same disappointment. Voters appear at the polls but they are not registered or their party affiliation is not a matter of record and so they lose their vote.

And another thing that is going to make it worse than ever. Heretofore it has been the custom for registry assessors to make a canvass and to register those whom they know to be Republicans or Democrats or Socialists. This time registry assessors have special instructions to make no canvass, so go to the polling place yourself and see that you are registered.

The registry assessors' books have been received in Charleroi, and on Tuesday and Wednesday an assessor is expected to be at each polling place, ready to list your name, residence and party affiliation. Unless you are thus enrolled before March 18th, you cannot vote at the May primary. There is no way for you to get your name on the enrollment list after the registry assessors complete their work on March 17th.

Thus it is important that voters fix March 16 and 17 in their minds and go to their several polling places in order to have their names placed on the registry list.

REV. KELLER GOES TO HIS NEW CHARGE

Rev. C. A. Keller and family will leave for Ashtabula, O., on Tuesday, Mr. Keller having responded to a call from an important church in that city. Rev. Keller has been pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Charleroi for a little over two years, taking up his duties in February 1918. During his pastorate his executive and organizing ability has brought gratifying results, and he leaves this charge in a flourishing condition. The congregation now has a comfortable manse and in all benevolent and financial efforts has made a substantial increase.

During his stay in Charleroi Mr. Keller has formed many lasting friendships, giving much of his time to the advancement of all worthy local interests. His prompt response to the need for Camp Pastors will be recalled, as well as his activity in helping to fight the influenza epidemic in the Fall of 1918.

The friends of Rev. Keller regret to part with him, and hope that he will be given health and strength to carry on his work in the larger field to which he has been called.

VETERANS TO HOLD SPECIAL MEETING

A special meeting of George Raymond Craft Post, No. 256 will be held this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the public meeting room of the Charleroi municipal building. Final decision will be passed upon for the location of a permanent club room for the veterans in Charleroi.

A campaign for the distribution of the "stars and stripes" will be inaugurated. This publication was the overseas companion of every soldier on duty with the A. E. F. It is published in Washington and serves to portray the events of the war from the soldier's viewpoint without the stringent censorship of the military authorities.

PASTOR SPEAKS ON THE "MINISTERING MASTER"

Sunday night in the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church, Rev. John R. Burson, the pastor preached a sermon that was much enjoyed by the audience present. Rev. Burson spoke on "The Ministering Master" and showed how the pagan idea was to rule another, the semi-barbarian to not only rule, but to reduce to serfdom, and likewise to wield authority, military, physical and intellectual, with an iron hand. "The minister came not to be ministered unto but to minister and to give his life a ransom for many." America cannot live to herself, said the speaker. With her resources she must hear the world's cry for aid. Look where you will and hands are extended. We must not pass by on the other side. Bread cast upon the water returns.

Rev. Burson read a letter from a port in Brazil, where a sailor had a comfort kit given by the C. E. society of the church, and said that the letter enclosed in the kit had been read many times and that it has been a great comfort to the sailor. So the ministering master is a real example for all times.

The young man who goes a-court may be pardoned for not quite agreeing with Attorney General Palmer that old clothes are a duty.

LOCALS TRIM THE ROCHESTER FIVE

Saturday evening at the high school gym the C. H. S. basketball team defeated the strong Rochester High School team in one of the fastest games played on the local floor this season. Speedy action began as soon as the referee blew his whistle, the locals taking the lead. Through the first three quarters the score remained almost even. Continued on page 2.

500 new pupils will be added to the enrollment next fall. To take care of these children will require additional school facilities, and this the board proposes to secure by the erection of a modern school building.

BELLEVERNON IS ANXIOUS TO HOUSE ALL NEW WORKMEN

COSTS DIVIDED IN GAMBLING CHARGE CASE

In the case of the commonwealth against Elmer Hawker, of Fayette City, charged with running a gambling house, and which was tried in the Fayette county courts on Thursday last, the jury returned a verdict of not guilty, but divided the costs between the defendant and the private prosecutor, Frank E. Scroggs. In the testimony it was claimed that Hawker was running punch boards in his pool room, in violation of the law. The defense claimed the suit was the result of spite work.

AUTO THIEVES ARE CAUGHT IN OHIO

A seven-passenger Buick automobile, owned by M. Rogavitz of Monessen and which he had only recently had repaired, was stolen last Tuesday morning from a garage at the corner of Oneida street and Schoonmaker avenue in Monessen. The thieves had broken the locks on every stall in the garage, evidently hunting for a touring car, the Rogavitz machine being the only one of that character kept there.

The police were notified of the loss and began an immediate hunt for the machine. The received word during the day that the machine had passed through Woodlawn early in the morning and later in the afternoon a telegram came from Columbus, Ohio, saying the machine had been taken up there, and four colored men who were riding in it, arrested. Mr. Rogavitz left at once for the Ohio city to claim his machine and bring it home.

The four colored men, who were detained by the authorities, were brought back to Monessen by the police of that borough last Tuesday and lodged in the lockup, and it is likely that owing to drastic automobile laws they will receive a stiff sentence.

Mr. Rogavitz also returned with his machine, which seemed to have had hard usage at the hands of the inexperienced chauffeur.

TOWING STEAMER CHANGES OWNERS

It is reported that the LaBelle Iron Works of Steubenville has purchased the steamer Carbon from the Pittsburgh Coal Company, and that it will be used to tow coal out of the Allegheny river from the mines of the Consumers Mining Company at Harmsville to the plant at Steubenville. It was also reported that two boats of the same type as the E. F. Jones, Jr. owned by the Vesta Coal Company will be built soon. Expansion of the coal trade in the Monongahela valley is constantly

At Least 300 New Men Will Be Added To Glass Factory Force

PEOPLE ASKED TO TAKE MEN

Belle Vernon is making a mighty effort to overcome the housing problem in that borough and a commensurate number of workmen about to be put in by the plant of the American Window Glass company in that town. On Sunday the clergy of the community asked their various congregations to throw open their homes for the temporary accommodation of the workmen the glass company are now recruiting, and who will be employed at the plant when the new tank is placed in operation about the first of April. Only in this way, it is said, will it be possible for the company to open the plant on schedule time, as the housing situation there and in the surrounding territory is acute as it will be impossible to build houses and take care of the men and their families before the coming summer.

Business men of the town met last week and organized to arrange to meet the housing problem and a committee consisting of R. C. Thompson, K. K. Pierce and Charles L. Melenzyer has been appointed to carry in a canvass for rooms. A meeting will be held this evening in Taggart Hall, when it is expected that plans will be completed to open a room and board registration bureau, to list accommodations volunteered as a result of the appeals made from the pulpits on Sunday.

It is estimated that with the opening of the new tank the payroll of the glass plant there will be about $25,000 per week, which will mean a large increase in the spending and investment power of the community, and the citizens of Belle Vernon realize that if they are to secure the full benefit of this payroll increase the workers at the factory must be taken care of and provided with rooms and boarding until new houses can be erected with the opening of spring weather.

Steady work has been assured all the men at the plant who want it, and the committee count on most of the men coming in to remain in Belle Vernon.
